BRITISH STORM THEPVAL; "TANKS" BEAT MACHINE-GUNS

AVIATION SCHOOL IS OPENED NOW TO HAWAII'S MILITIA

War Dept. Sends Notice That Guardsmen From Territory Will Be Given Training

GOVERNMENT TO FOOT EXPENSE AND PAY, ALSO

Plan Will Not Interfere With Establishment of Field at Fort Kamehameha

Members of the National Guard of Hawaii have had opened to them immediate opportunity to go to the army aviation school at San Diego and learn flying at government expense. Brig.-Gen. Evans, commanding the Hawaiian Department, received in yesterday's mail a letter outlining the plan, and has conveyed its terms to Brig.-Gen. Johnson, N. G. H., the adjutant general of the National Guard. Applications for this aviation service are to be made through Gen. Johnson. It is evident that the staunch backing of aviation on Oahu which Gen. Evans has shown is producing results. The plan to send would-be aviators to San Diego will not interfere with the plan to establish an aviation school here. But while the school plans are maturing the San Diego opportunity is available.

It was known here before that Congress, in the National Defense Act of June 3, appropriated nearly $10,000,000 for the training of the National Guard in aviation, but the details of how this money is to be spent and just what share in it the National Guard of Hawaii was to receive are questions that have only been guessed at.

The national defense act divides the country into twelve districts, each of which is to provide one division—about 16,500 troops—of the National Guard.

The number of aviation squadrons to be maintained by the government is one for each such division. But if any state shall fail to send its full quota of National Guardsmen to one of the government aviation schools for instruction, the full number may be made up from any other state or territory.

Shortage of Pupils
At present there is a shortage and according to the letter received Hawaii may send as many members of its National Guard as apply for a course in aviation to San Diego, where they will be trained at government expense by army aviators, receiving the full pay of officers of the regular army while on flying status, and receiving the travel pay and other allowances of officers or noncommissioned officers of their grade in the regular service.

The terms of the military bill limit the number of regular army aviators to 114 and the number of officers of the aerial reserve corps to 297, but no limit is placed upon the number of national guardsmen who may receive instruction at government schools, it being the policy of the government to instruct all who apply and who can successfully pass the required physical examination.

Will Instruct Mechanics, Too
The government is going further than merely instructing men of the guard how to fly. It is going to instruct mechanics in the difficult art of taking care of a motor—the heart and lungs of the aeroplane. Then when a sufficient number of men have been instructed at government expense the men will be formed into companies and squadrons and the government will provide first-class aeroplanes for use of these new National Guard units.

It is the plan of the War Department to maintain four aviation centers, located at San Diego, Cal., New York City, Chicago, Ill., and San Antonio, Texas.

The school at San Diego has been in operation for nearly three years

'Service Tour' Plan For Army in Hawaii Indefinitely 'Off'

Army headquarters here has received news that all "tours of service" or time for stay on the islands by army officers have been indefinitely extended. In other words, dates when the tours here were to end are now off, and the army officers will not know until new orders come when they are likely to leave.

To the operation of the new army bill, with its large increase of commissioned personnel, is attributed the new order, the bill requiring numerous readjustments.

REPUBLICANS TO REGAIN CONTROL OF U. S. SENATE

Fight on Mainland Bright With Hope for G. O. P., Leaders Declare

By C. S. ALBERT
(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 18.—The possibility that a higher protective duty may be placed on sugar grows. It is too early for the word "probability." Within two months the matter may be determined and speculation now becomes useless, if not misleading.

The result of the Maine elections is perhaps of more interest and importance to the people of Hawaii than those of any other locality. Restoration of the old rates on sugar are brought nearer. The Republicans gained one senator and one member of the house.

In order to reestablish the duties carried by the Payne-Aldrich act as applied to sugar it is essential for the Republicans to regain control not only of the house but the senate. There is a general belief prevailing among politicians that possibly the house may be made Republican. The senate is a different proposition. The Democratic majority is large and but a third of the membership is elected at the November contest. It would be futile to attempt tariff revision at an extraordinary session. In the event of Mr. Hughes' election, if the senate remained Democratic, Republican success would naturally add one vote in the person of Vice-President Fairbanks if a tie should occur. But in order to accomplish anything toward tariff revision the Republicans must control the senate in addition to the house. For that reason every ounce of energy is being exerted to achieve Republican success in close senatorial contests.

The victory in Maine is a double step in the direction of change in senate and house. It is far short of decisive, but one step in the direction of what Republicans hope to achieve.

The Republicans of the senate appointed a special committee to do nothing but fight for control in all the doubtful states. They are remaining up nights trying to pull down all the senators where Democrats are seeking reelection. Senator Weeks is

WOULD MAKE STEAMER PAY DAMAGES

Damaged to the Kuluhi wharf, Hilo, sustained recently when the inter-island steamship Kahala ran into it. It will be charged to the company, according to a vote of the harbor board in meeting today afternoon.

Chairman C. R. Forbes declared at the meeting that the Kahala hit the wharf almost at full speed while trying to avoid another boat, and that in his opinion the company should be charged with the repairs now necessary. Capt. R. Williamson, master, reported these damages as slight. Recommendation that the Hawaiian Electric Company be awarded the contract for a conveyor unit at Kuluhi wharf was made this afternoon to the harbor board by the Hawaii Consolidated Railway, which has the work in charge. The recommendation stated that while the Hawaiian Electric bid is $10,265 as against $9835 by Catton, Neill Company, a difference in time offers amounts to $1445 in favor of the former. The railway company announced its intention of paying a bonus of $25 a day if the work is completed ahead of time.

COMING FOR USE BY LOCAL POSTS STOPPING WORK

Will Replace Machines Now In Use and Fill Places at Present Unsupplied

Six new ambulances of the most modern army approval are to be shipped to Hawaii for use in the army posts according to word given out today at headquarters. They will not arrive for some weeks yet, it was stated today.

As yet no decision has been made as to where the new machines will be placed, but it is likely that Schofield, Shafter and possibly Kamehameha will come in for a share of their use.

There are at present two ambulances at Fort Shafter and one at Schofield Barracks, but several years of constant use have put them pretty much the worse for wear, and the announcement that six new machines are coming will be greeted with rejoicing.

The new cars are of the General Motor Company type, the ambulance proper being placed upon a truck of some 1500 pounds. They are to be shipped from Pontiac, Michigan.

STRIKERS CROWD BEFORE WHARVES; OTHER MEN QUIT

Japanese Fear to Return From Lunch and Filipinos Join Walkout

HARBOR BOARD MEETS BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

Police Send Further Officers to Prevent Disorders and Watch Situation

Although generally friendly and tending to joke with the policemen on guard at Pier 15 late this afternoon, a few in a crowd of several hundred striking stevedores are said to be becoming somewhat ugly, and Deputy Sheriff Julius W. Asch is taking precautions by increasing the guard. At 2:30 several mounted policemen on the evening shift went directly to Queen street, at the foot of Maunakea street and plain clothes men are mingling in the crowd, watching their movements. Several officers in uniform are holding back the crowd which has pushed up around the large open doors to jeer and taunt the few stevedores who are working inside on the Wilhelmmina. Following a speech from Frederick K. Makino of the Hawaii Hochi a large party of Japanese stevedores left the pier.

McCabe, Hamilton & Renny reported at 3 o'clock this afternoon that about 50 men had quit working on the Wilhelmmina this afternoon, these being mostly Filipinos; and that the only Japanese missing from the workers' ranks so far were those who went out of Pier 15 to lunch and were afraid to return when they saw the large crowd of striking union men about the docks.

Sheriff Rose was called to meet with the harbor board relative to the tension of the strike and reported to the Star-Bulletin about 3:05 that everything was apparently quiet but that he had ordered two motorcycle and two mounted policemen to the docks.

Advices from Pier 16 at 3:15 were that only 17 out of about 40 Japanese were working this afternoon on the Hyades. Japanese at work, however, do not believe that their comrades are striking but claim they are afraid to come back on account of the big crowd of union men on the outside.

At 2:45 o'clock this afternoon the harbor board went into "executive session" during the regular session which had begun at 1:30 o'clock. The motion to go into executive session was made by Col. Charles J. McCarthy, and came soon after the arrival of Sheriff Charles H. Rose. The sheriff is cleared at present with the four harbor commissioners.

Following the executive session of the harbor board Commissioner McCarthy said that he was opposed to giving to the public any statement as to what action they had considered in the executive session. Wakefield agreed with him.

Either with the intention of frightening the non-union stevedores working at that wharf discharging the Wilhelmmina, or as a warning that worse things may
